Preface

The Virginia Quarterly Review was founded by President Edwin A. Alderman under the auspices of the University of Virginia. It was financially underwritten by a group of friends of the University for a ten-year period and directed by a Board of Advisory Editors, all of whom were members of the faculty of the University. The first Editor was James Southall Wilson. The Advisory Editors consisted of Edwin A. Alderman, John Calvin Metcalf, Albert Lefevre, and Bruce Williams, and the Business Manager was Atcheson L. Hench. An office was opened on January 1, 1925, and the first issue came from the press March 15, 1925.

Changes in the staff occurred when Mr. Hench retired as Business Manager. Stringfellow Barr became Managing Editor in 1926 and later an Advisory Editor. In 1929 Lambert Davis joined the staff and was the first full-time Managing Editor.

The second Editor of the magazine was Stringfellow Barr, who served in that position from the end of 1930 until the spring of 1934, when he retired as Editor and as a member of the Board of Advisory Editors undertook special duties as Business Manager. Lambert Davis retained the title of Managing Editor until 1936, but actually acted as Editor, in close association with Mr. Barr and the chairman of the Board of Advisory Editors. During this period Mr. Barr continued to act as Business Manager, except for the last year, when he was on leave and his duties were carried by Mr. Wilson. In 1936 Lambert Davis became officially the third Editor. During this period several changes occurred in the personnel of the Advisory Editors. Albert G. A. Balz and Atcheson L. Hench each served for a time and in 1926 Carroll Mason Sparrow was appointed to the Board and continued as one of the most active Advisory Editors and contributors until his death in 1941.

In 1939 Lawrence Lee became Editor, with William Jay Gold as Managing Editor. Advisory Editors at this time included John Calvin Metcalf, Garrard Glenn, Hardy C. Dillard, Archibald B. Shepperson, and James Southall Wilson, chairman of the Board.

Archibald B. Shepperson succeeded Mr. Lee as Editor in 1941, with William Jay Gold continuing as Managing Editor until 1942, when Charlotte Kohler assumed that position. Robert K. Gooch and Frank A. Geldard became members of the Board of Advisory Editors. From the Fall of 1942 until November 1, 1945, Mr. Shepperson was on leave of absence in the service of the Navy. During this time the magazine was edited by the Managing Editor, Charlotte Kohler, with the active advice of the Chairman of the Board and the other Advisory Editors.

MFM

The resident members of the Board during the war years were James Southall Wilson, John Calvin Metcalf (an active Advisory Editor from the founding of the Quarterly), Garrard Glenn, and Thomas Perkins Abernethy. Members in the national service included Mr. Shepperson, Hardy C. Dillard, Robert K. Gooch, and Frank A. Geldard.

The publication of this twenty-year index from 1925 through 1944 as an aid to librarians and individuals possessing complete files of the magazine was first planned for the Autumn of 1944, when the twentieth volume was completed. The scarcity of paper and resulting government regulations made postponement necessary until 1946. The editors hope that at the end of a second twenty-year period a similar index may be published. For the preparation of this one they wish to express thanks to Miss Mabel Wyllie of the Alderman Library of the University of Virginia.
